This includes, but not limited to, pioneering approaches in agriculture, food production, and waste reduction that prioritize environmental sustainability, biodiversity conservation, and resource efficiency.

This could include quantifiable metrics such as reductions in carbon emissions, improvements in soil health, increased biodiversity, or enhanced food security and nutrition outcomes. It is essential to quantify the outcomes via measurable key indicators (for instance, number of beneficiaries and end-users, percentage of efficiency improvement....).

Women Empowerment for Green Food Systems:

Active engagement and empowerment of local communities and stakeholders, facilitated by women, in decision-making processes and project implementation specifically within the context of greening food systems. This involves fostering inclusive participation, ensuring equitable access to resources, providing opportunities for capacity building, and promoting leadership roles for women and marginalized groups in initiatives aimed at enhancing the sustainability and resilience of food systems.

7. PROCEDURE

Each eligible application is evaluated remotely by independent experts (see Article 15 of the Horizon 2020 Rules for Participation Regulation no. 1290/2013), who carry out a technical evaluation on the basis of the criteria mentioned above. An Individual Evaluation Report, which includes comments and scores for all evaluation criteria, is prepared by each evaluator. The Jury members meet in a panel to discuss and rank the applications and select the best/high-ranked four applications (shortlisted) with highest scores to be invited for an interview.

The pre-selection Jury will evaluate each application against the three award criteria and score them as follows (half marks are possible decimals are not).

Criterion	Threshold	Maximum points
1. Innovative Solutions for Greening Food Systems	3	/5
2. Evidence of Impactful Implementation:	3	/5
3. Women Empowerment for Green Food Systems:	3	/5
Total	9	[/15]

For applications with the same score, the pre-selection Jury will determine a priority order according to the following approach: The score for the criterion No 3 will be given a weight of 1.5.

On the basis of the evaluation by the Jury, PRIMA will decide on the award of the prize. If two or more applications tie for the first rank, the price will be equally divided and awarded to all.

All participants will be informed the End of July 2024 on the outcome of their application.
